« Shadow captivates and takes possession of the viewer, like a dream disturbing escaped from an imaginary burning fever. Here is an experiment and an exciting cinema proposal. »

Jean-Philippe Bernard, Le Matin Dimanche

« The singularity of a project is sometimes a guarantee of success. Poetic and experimental essay, Shadow, like the films by Cocteau or Isidore Isou, only looks like itself. »

Pascal Gavillet, Tribune de Genève

« A dreamlike, sensual and scary dive into a mental forest, embodied by Asia Argento and her daughter Anna-Lou Castoldi, and crossed by a powerful music. »

Nicolas Julliard, Espace 2

« An unclassifiable film, hypnotic, wadded and claustrophobic with a magnificent synchronicity between images and music. »

Olivier Francey, Radio Lac

« A magnetic film. The art of Pascal Greco and Philippe Pellaud values itself by the fascination of their images in weightlessness, using all the artifices of filming and editing. »

Mathieu Loewer, Le Courier

« An intense experience, strongly incarnated by Asia Argento and Anna-Lou Castoldi. »

Mathieu Gruel, Ouest France

« An enveloping and hypnotic atmosphere like a spell, a unique sensory experience. »

Roberto Nepoti, La Repubblica

« 35 minutes of pure happiness, a thrilling, frightening and moving intrigue with one of the most beautiful soundtracks of 2019. »

Bester Langs, Gonzai

Asia Argento, Anna-Lou Castoldi

The synopsis

« A teenage girl finds herself lost in a deep forest. She seems to be in danger and tries to find her way. As we follow his long descent to madness and his struggle to try to contain it, a new character appears in a monochrome and spooky space. A strange link seems to link these two characters... This dreamlike escape, confrontation between the world of the «sensitive» and that of the «intelligible», poses a multitude of questions about our own condition. »
